

SCANDAL IN RELIEF?

In the modern world, standards and objectives change rather rapidly. Some are for the better; and some, it may be, eventually will turn out for the worse.

A generation ago, the large newspapers of the Philadelphia area, and in other big-city zones, considered themselves primarily fact-gathering agencies. They prided themselves in finding out the truth whenever rumors circulated. They prided themselves also in being "objective" in their reporting, however "subjective" they might be in editorial policy.

For one who first knew Philadelphia in the days when there was strong competition in newspaper fields there, when the papers vied with each other to dig out the facts regardless of whose toes were stepped on, there was a distinct shock in a recent editorial by the Evening Bulletin.

This had to do with the question of whether or not a State investigation should be made into the subject of relief.

The Bulletin expressed itself as pleased that the Joint State Government Commission has decided not to make a $300,000 case-by-case probe of the State's relief system, in spite of the fact that the Legislature appropriated the money for that purpose. Instead, the Commission plans to spend $10,000 studying the "methods" of public assistance administration.

As a matter of editorial policy, the Bulletin can of course view this matter however it wishes. It may take the position that the investigation would have been merely a "fishing expedition." It may also take the attitude that $300,000 is a very considerable sum of money, and that its saving is a matter for rejoicing—although it so happens that the sum involved is infinitesimal by comparison with some of the incredibly vast Federal spending programs which the Bulletin has supported in the past.

It isn't the editorial policy of the Bulletin in this instance which produces a feeling of dismay, of profound journalistic changes in the course of a couple of decades, so much as it is the news policy revealed in the editorial.

The Bulletin observes that such a probe as the one discussed could properly be made only at a time "when irregularities have come to light in sufficient numbers to raise the question whether the system is seriously shot through with them." It says also that "not even a prima facie case has been made out against the public assistance administration." It moreover asserts that "a public agency, like an individual, deserves protection against being put unnecessarily on trial."

There was a time when any live-wire newspaperman in Philadelphia would unhesitatingly have branded all these pious generalities as "hokum."

They would have risen promptly to point out that the only way anyone, or any newspaper, ever got "stories"—that is to say, revealed the facts—was to go after them.

They would have observed that all agencies of public government ought always to be under scrutiny by the people's representatives—that's the very essence of free government. They would have commented with some sarcasm that if no investigation ever could start before a prima facie case had been made out, there would never be any investigations; the guilty never would be brought to justice; and the fall guys, whether individual victims or the whole public, would never have either a champion or justice.

At the bottom of the relief problem are facts. Those facts have been variously interpreted by rumors which have been in circulation for many months. The legislators who had heard those rumors appropriated $300,000 to try to get them run down, and ascertain the facts.

Since the largest relief pool in Pennsylvania is in the Bulletin's back yard, Philadelphia, those rumors are circulating, so to speak, right under the Bulletin's nose.

DOESN'T THE BULLETIN CONSIDER THE UNEARTHING OF THE FACTS IN THE MATTER, REGARDLESS OF WHAT THOSE FACTS ARE, TO BE PART OF ITS OWN DUTIES?

After completion of a one-mile hike into camp, Scouts were assigned their camping areas where they pitched their own tents in the woods and set up their own camp sites. All meals were prepared by the scout campers for each individual patrol.

Scouter officials at the Camporee were John Burtonwood, chief judge; Dr. Thaddeus Weglarski and Lloyd Bucher as Area chief judges; Harry Walker, chief clerk. These men were assisted by Scouters and Senior Scouts from every district in the Council.

LIVES ENDANGERED EACH WEEK ALONG CREEK AT CROYDON

Complaints Rife of Actions of Boat Operators and The Bathers

REGULATION IS CITED

Motorboat Speeders Liable To Fine Up to $2,000 and or Imprisonment

CROYDON, June 21—"A bunch of lunatics!"

That is the way an operator of one boat yard here refers to those who are claimed every week-end to be endangering life and limb along the Neshaminy Creek.

Tales of speeding motorboat parties, bathers in the nude using State road bridge as a diving board, others endangering their own lives by leaping from the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge with its maze of underwater cribbing, bathers hurtling stones and piles of dirt from bridges onto passing parties of boatmen, language most foul—are rampant in this community.

Some state they have appealed to police in the area who have aided on occasions; others have threatened to call in the Pennsylvania state police, others say that calls to the U. S. Coast Guard for patrols have gone unheeded.

The motorboat regulation is to the effect that "Any person who shall operate any motorboat or any vessel in a reckless or negligent manner so as to endanger the life,

BUSY MAKING "SNOW" FOR DANCE CARNIVAL

Snow Men, Snow Balls, "Sparklers" To Appear In Dance Revue

FRIDAY IS THE NIGHT

If you have recently seen a group of women cutting white paper into tiny pieces while waiting for a bus don't think these Bristol adults suddenly reverted to childhood, and are cutting out paper dolls. They are simply mothers busy making "snow" for their little snow men, snow balls, snow fairies, and sparklers of spring.

Before you think this reporter is losing his mind with the heat and humidity let us hasten to tell you these frigid tiny tots are the "Granzow Babies" who will be a feature attraction in "Winter Carnival" second act of the Sara Granzow Dancing Academy's 14th Recital, "Carnival of Dance" in 3 acts at the Grand Theatre, Friday evening.

"American Carnival" is the 1st act, opening with "Youth on the Farm," taking you in dance from the simple phase of American life to the sophisticated. The professional training class offers an ultra-modern ballet in fluorescent costume that is startling in effect. The third act, "Latin Fiesta," takes you in a gay whirl through the Latin countries.

Mrs. Geneva Doran, will sing "Giannina Mia" seated in a gliding gondola, after which the Gondola Ballet will rise from the canal and dance. The Torreadores, another feature number, tumbling acrobatics and trapeze work, is said to be breathe-taking as these local youngsters perform high above the stage.

Miss Granzow will present the finale of this act and recital in a gay party of dance with streamers and balloons descending upon the stage to be tossed to the audience by the dancers. Thomas Doran will be master of ceremonies throughout the recital.

The specialty dances this year are original, unique and gorgeously gowned as is the complete show. The scenic effects are created by Edward Crewes, well-known in the show world for such ability. Howard Fabian, Jr., constructed the moveable gondola.

Certain time is at eight o'clock. Tickets can be purchased at the Grand Theatre for the "Carnival of Dance."

Bristol Aeromodeler Captures Third Honors

Seven Aeromodelers members competed in the Garden State Aeromodel contest, Sunday, at Vineland, N. J. Gordon Pearson, Bristol, local club president, took honors by winning a handsome third prize trophy in the senior age glider endurance event. The model flown by Gordon was a redesigned "Thermic."

Other members made good showings in various speed, free flight and stunt events but the competition proved too keen for them. Albert Abrams, Jr., and Thomas Pearson all made successful flights in the junior speed and stunt events. Harry Brown tried hard in one of the free light events, and James VanSant, Jr., and Clarence Wells made flights in excess of 100 m.p.h. speeds in various speed events, only missing the winning mark by fractions of a second on a half mile speed course. A total of 36 contestants participated in the contest, the weather was nearly perfect and the contest was voted as being one of the most efficiently run of any of the four contests already attended in 1949 by members of the Bristol club.

At the last Aeromodelers meeting it was voted to conduct an outdoor flying session at next Wednesday's meeting. Members will meet at the meeting room and transportation to a flying site (if one can be found) will be arranged.

No contest is scheduled for next Sunday and the week-end will be devoted to test flying. It will also provide novice members with an opportunity to practice fly models to gain enough confidence to enter the large model meet at Johnstown, Pa., Naval Air Station on July 4th.

New member for the week was Gilbert Engel of Edgely.

Fourth Ward Will Be Canvassed for Money

Bristol Blood Donors, whose drive for funds got under way last evening, will have members, with equipment, canvass the fourth ward this evening. Members ask residents to help them keep the kiddies safe under the eyes of qualified Red Cross life savers at Silver Lake, where lifeguard service is maintained.

The members last evening canvassed the third ward for funds to help maintain guards at Silver Lake beach.

For the past four years the beach has been thus protected, with no fatalities recorded.

Generous support will help maintain this record.

The council agreed to leave Austria's borders as they were on Jan. 1, 1943, and Russia relinquished her claims to German assets except oil and Danube shipping, but is to receive $150,000,000 from Austria.
